

"It has been amazing to see the growth of the WPSL both from a quality & quantity perspective. The league now boasts a lot of our alumni in professional leagues world wide & that is credit to the league, the coaches and, of course, the players."

-Paul Riley (Coach, NWSL Portland Thorns)

"The Sacramento Storm of the Women's Premier Soccer League was my sole team during the transition in my career after college and when the National Team wasn't practicing. To this day, I credit the Storm with helping me develop. Without this team, there's a chance I would not have continued to play. Maybe I would have retired."

- Brandi Chastain (Former USWNT '88-04 & California Storm player)

ABOUT THE WPSL

THE PLAYERS

WPSL team rosters include college, post-college, professional, foreign, and talented high school players every year. Each of our 2,000+ college-educated athletes have direct ties to youth clubs across the United States.

The Women's Premier Soccer League is a highly competitive national league affiliated with the United States Adult Soccer Association (USASA) since 1998. With over 70 teams nationwide, the WPSL is the largest competitive women's soccer league in the world.

Occupying the second tier of the US women's soccer pyramid, the WPSL provides the essential link between professional and youth soccer.
